FOR 1975

Old Days, good times I remember.
Fun Days, filled with simple pleasure.

Drive in movies, comic books and blue jeans,
Howdy Doody, baseball cards and birthdays . . .

Take me back, to a world gone away,
Memories, seem like yesterday . . .

Old Days, good times I remember.
Gold Days, days I'll always treasure.

Funny faces, full of love and laughter,
Funny places, summer nights and streetcars . . .

Take me back, to the world gone away,
Memories, seem like yesterday . . .

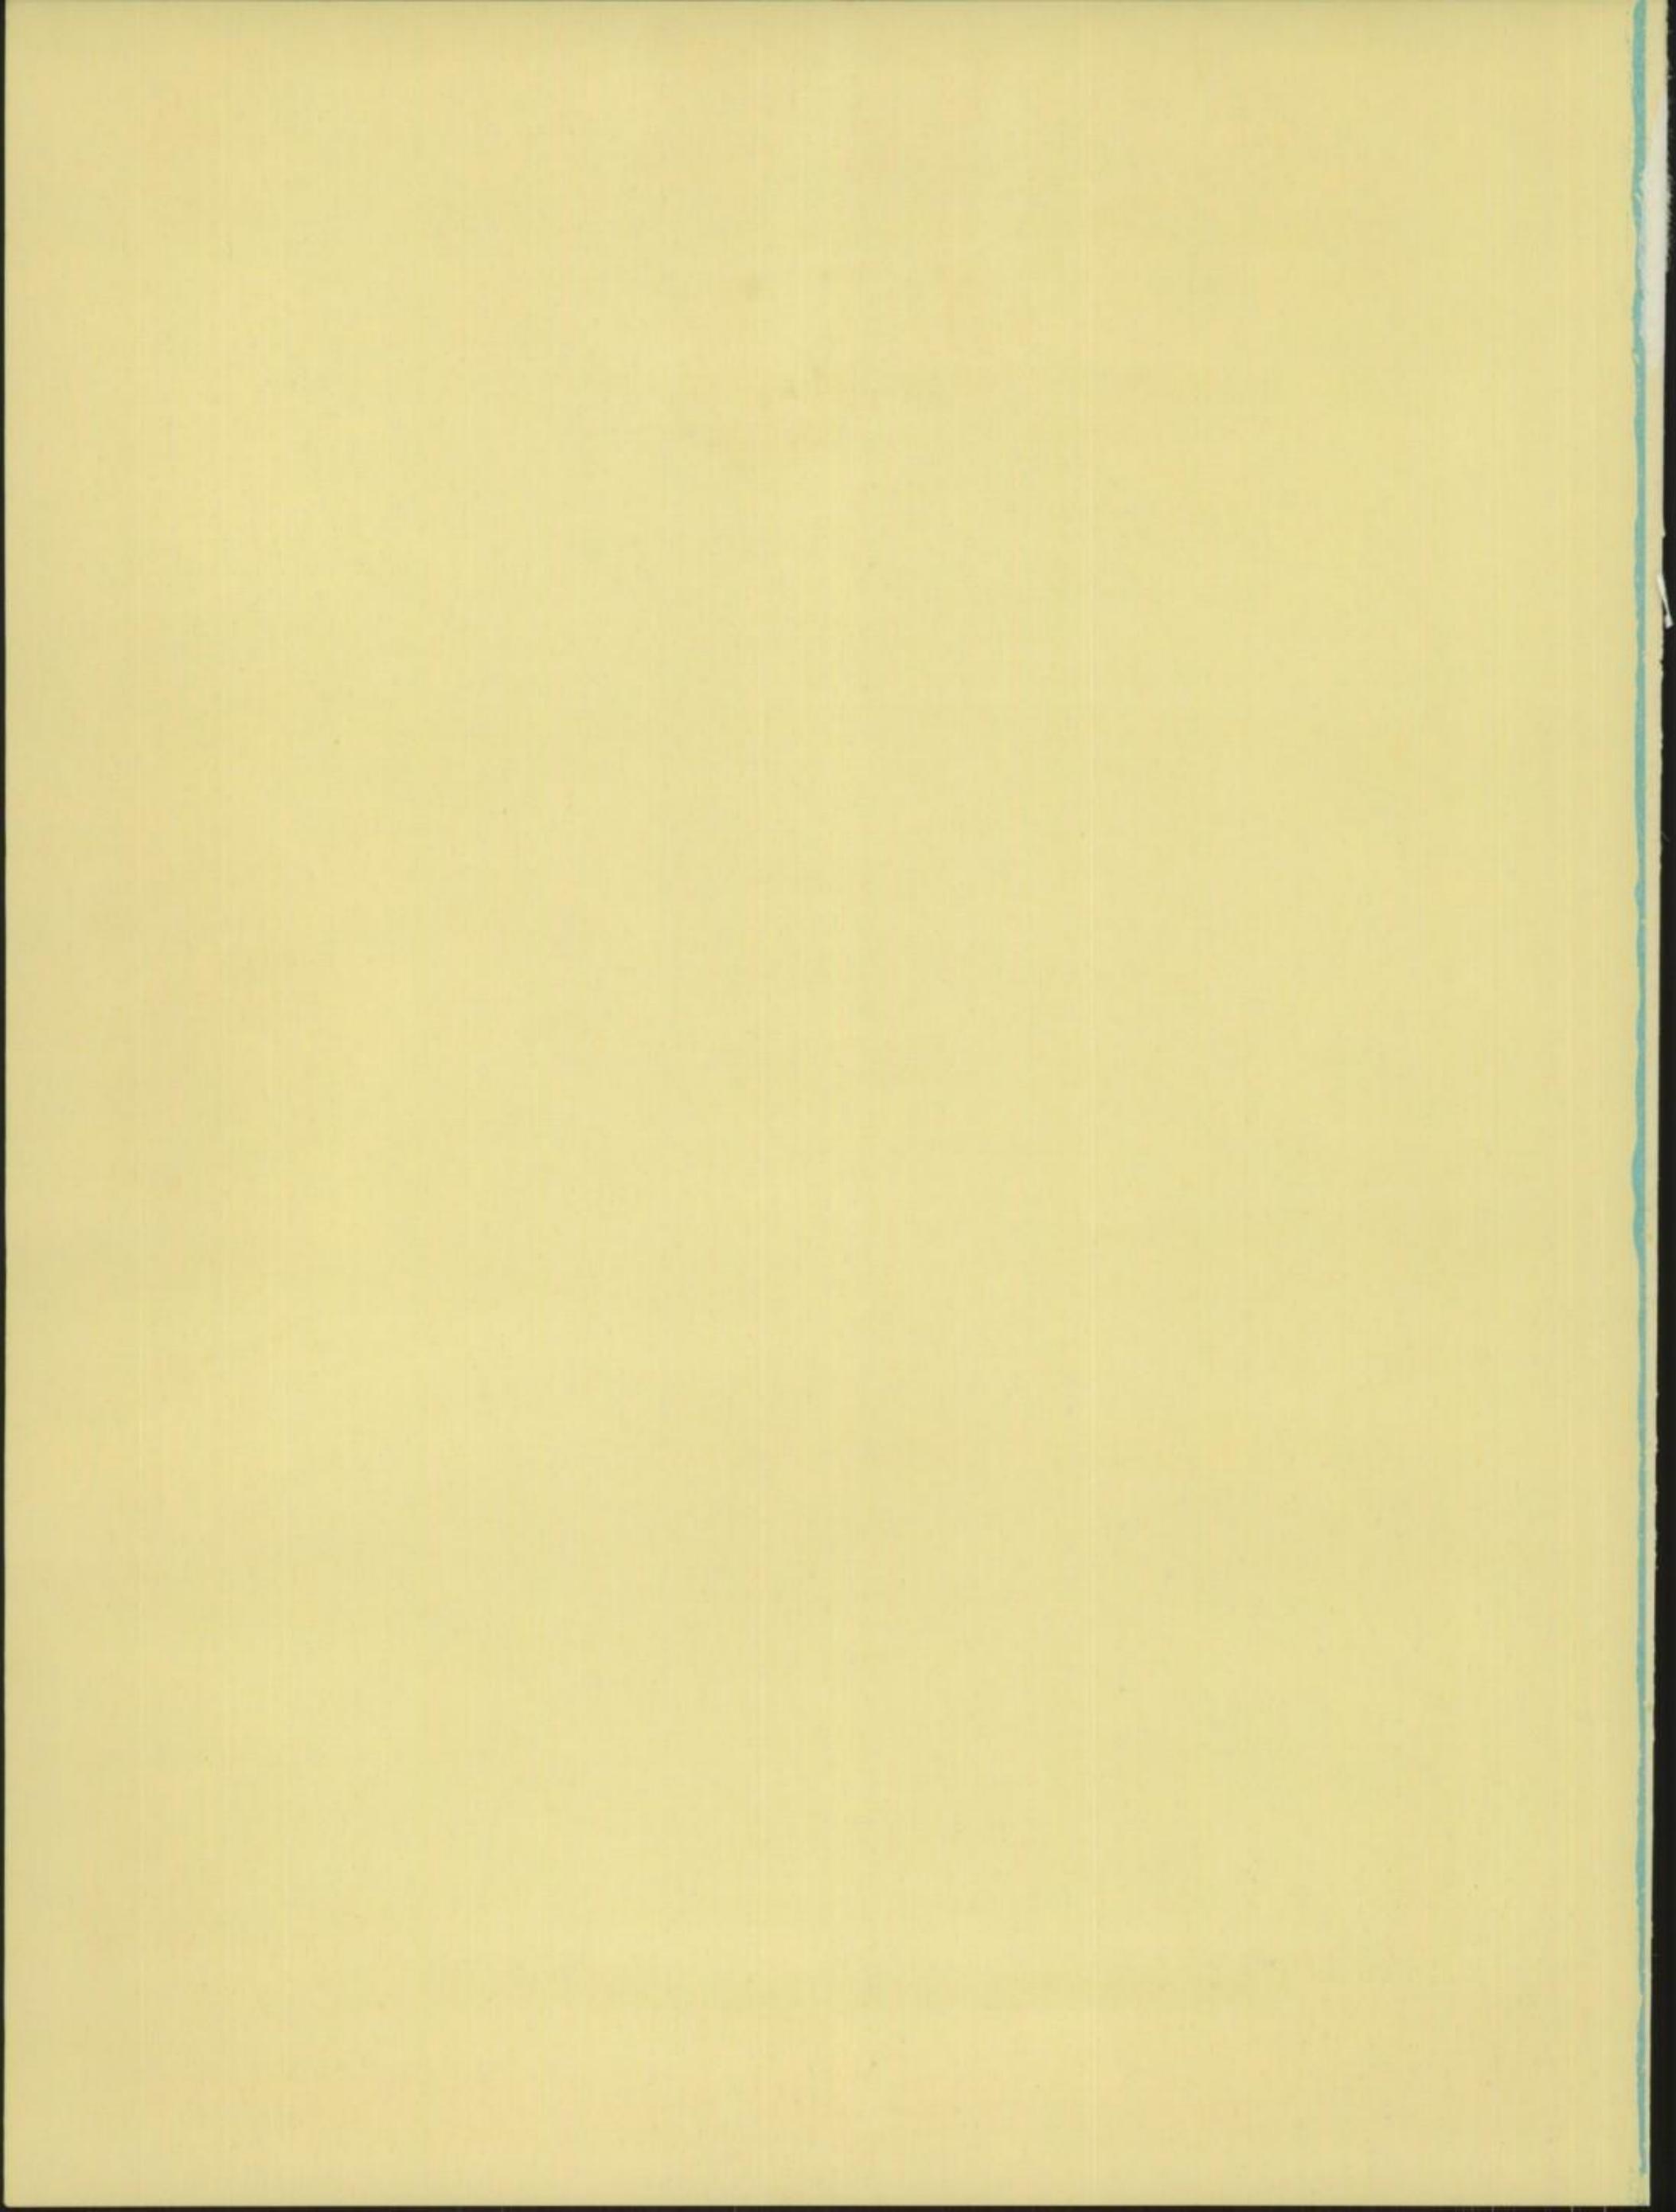

Old Days, in my mind and in my heart to stay . . .

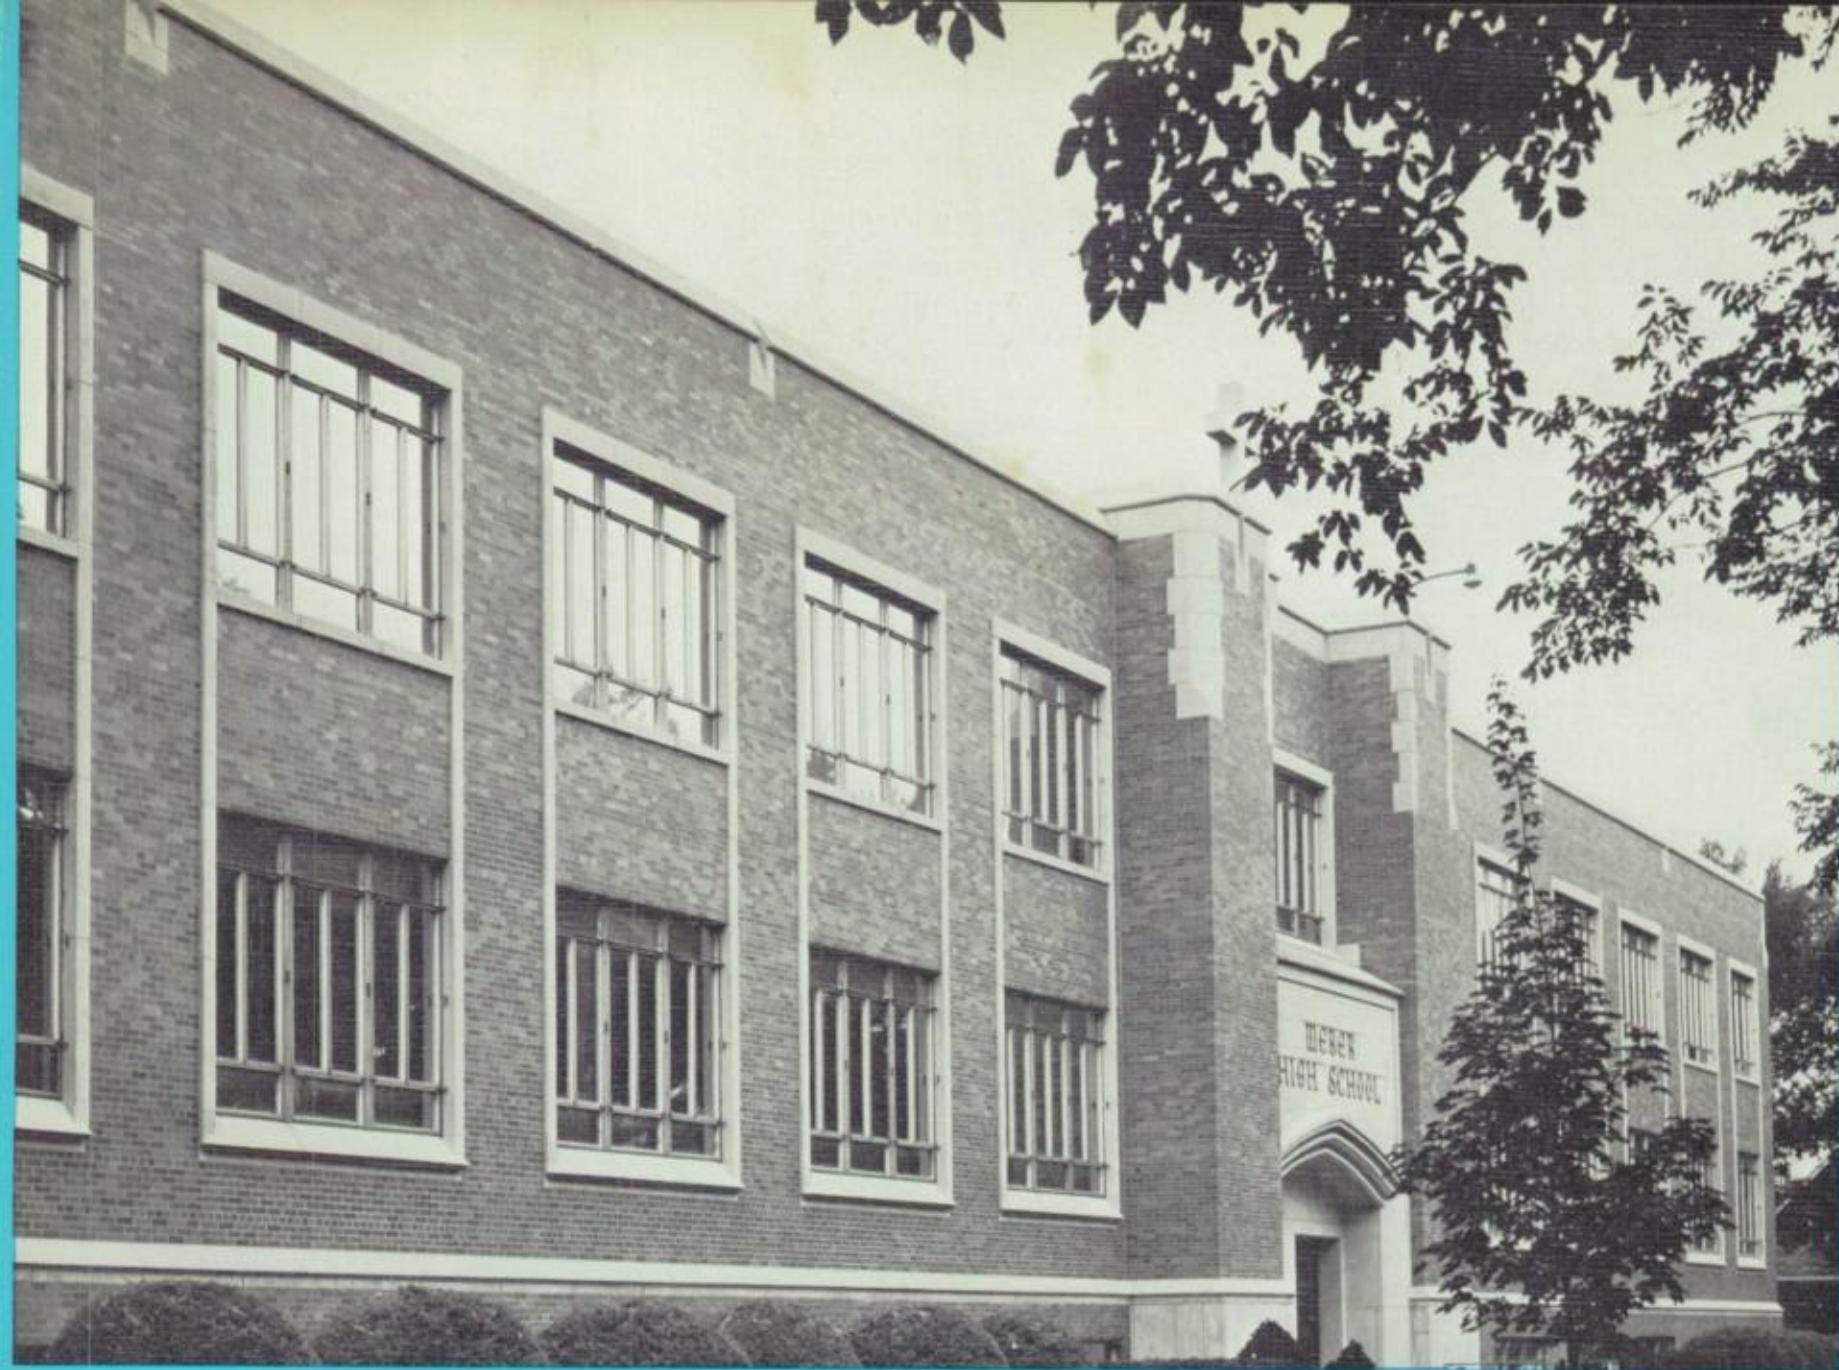

Old Days, rockin' reason, good times gone away . . .

Old Days, days of love and feeling extra keen . . .

Old days, days of magic, still so close to me . . .

WEBER HIGH SCHOOL

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
VOLUME XLII

FOREWORD

The 1974-75 school year at Weber High - a time encompassed by people, events, emotions, dreams.

All of these were unique,

and shall never be relived except in our memories.

It is our purpose in the 1975 Dolphin to record these bygone days and to help you recall them.

However, it is further our aim to emphasize a theme -
"Weber Stands Clear."

That is, we feel that Weber High School is a singular and distinctive institution.

It has its own particular organization its own traditions, regulations, and customs.

Its aim of high scholarship and nobility of character, as sought through a liberal education to form the "total man," is one unparalleled.

Setting it apart also are everyone and everything that made Weber what it was during the past year.

These may be seen in this, the Dolphin for 1975.

IN ITS ATHLETICS . . .
. . . WEBER STANDS CLEAR

Athletics is an important part of Weber High School and its educational processes. There is little else which brings out the true spirit of a school. From the major sports of football and basketball to the minor sports of golf and bowling, athletics foster fellowship, brotherhood, and school unity. Whether in victory or defeat, Weber's athletes bring honor to the school. Last year's entry into IHSA competition opened still greater horizons for the future of our athletic program.

ATHLETICS

VARSITY FOOTBALL

This past football season showed that Red Horde football is returning to the caliber it once held. The team had its best start in many years by winning their first two games against De La Salle and Palatine. After that everything seemed to go against us as evidenced by a last minute loss to St. Rita in which time ran out with the Horde on Rita's 10 yard line followed by two consecutive one point defeats to Loyola and Brother Rice. One more moment of glory was achieved with the defeat of Fenwick 21-14 at the close of the season.

The team which was small in size, did well considering their much larger opponents. Determination was the key to their success. Every opponent was given a tough struggle. Many events highlighted the season with the naming of P. Sitkowski, E. Stefanowicz, B. Wilczynski, and B. Niziolek to the Catholic League All-Star squad topping everything.

We can look forward to an even better football season this year with all the talent and experience of the remaining players and the acquisition of a strong Freshmen team.

FROSH FOOTBALL

The hard hitting 1974 Freshman football team finished their seven game season with a 5-2 record including an exciting victory over arch rival Gordon Tech in their last game. Other victories came over Palatine, Loyola, Brother Rice, and Mendel. The two losses were heartbreakers and came at the hands of Fenwick and St. Laurence. The experience gained from Freshmen football along with the maturity that will naturally take place over the year will hopefully create a number of players that will help the varsity in the 1975 football season.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

This past basketball season saw the varsity team once again winning games. After two consecutive winless seasons they were long overdue. The team got off to a great start winning nine of their first eleven games, but then they went cold and won only three through the rest of the season. Led by All-Star captain E. Sawyer and captain R. Conran, the team still qualified for the I. H. S. A. sectionals. In the sectionals the Horde beat rival Holy Cross by one point winning in the final seconds. Top-sided East Leyden soon eliminated the tribe from further competition, in the state event. The players, spurred on by school spirit, never gave a game away and ended up with a 12-13 overall record for their hard efforts.

SOPHOMORE BASKETBALL

The success of this years' Sophomore basketball program goes entirely to its fourteen members. They had outstanding rebounders, excellent shooters, and good ball handlers. The team played exciting basketball, including two super overtime wins against St. Laurence and St. Benedict that highlighted the season. A heartbreaking loss was suffered to Maine South, the eventual champion, in the Christmas tournament. If this group of athletes stays together, they should be quite successful before they graduate in 1977.

FRESHMEN BASKETBALL

Our Freshmen basketball team with a record this season of 14-6, show great promise for the future as our varsity team. The success of the team can be attributed to the combination of both individual performances as well as the total team effort. This winning Freshmen team shows that good things are ahead for Red Horde basketball. As they acquire more experience and confidence they are assured of similar success in their future as cagers.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The Red Horde Varsity Baseball Team this year got off to one of those fantastic starts common to Weber sports teams. It won three of its first four games before rain and snow cancelled five games. The team practiced in the gym to stay in shape but lost eight straight after returning to the diamond. The team won three more before the close of the season including a 19-3 stomping of rival St. Pat's. Although the year was disappointing for Horde Varsity Baseball, things look better for the future. With three fourths of the team returning, the experienced gained should prove invaluable in their next campaign.

FROSH-SOPH BASEBALL

The Frosh-Soph team is the source of all the prospects for future varsity teams. The Frosh-Soph are thus the farm club for the varsity. Under the leadership of Coach Harrington, this team was able to gain the experience and skills by which the Varsity can benefit. There are many players who make things look promising, and foretell future victory. These hopefulets combined with the remaining Varsity players, make up a well-balanced and all-around team, capable of competing in the rugged Catholic League.

VARSITY TENNIS

This year's tennis team had a fantastic fall season during Catholic league play, but faltered in the spring, against various schools. For the third year in a row, the team has had a new coach, Mr. Bill Grams. He quickly reorganized the team and led them to a 6-4 record in Catholic League play. All of the varsity players returned for the spring season, including, Seniors P. Sitkowski, C. Skonieczny, and the co-capt. K. Gehrling. The team mustered only a 1-4 record, in the spring season. The close of the season saw P. Sitkowski, and J. Walaszek take seventh place, in the I.H.S.A., as a doubles team in the sectionals at Maine South.

VARSITY TRACK

The track team had many obstacles to victory this past season. It had the consistent problem of inadequate training facilities. The team's only available practice area was in the corridors of the school where they practiced daily. Despite this inconvenience to the team they performed well in many of their meets. Although they were unable to win any of their eight meets, they took second in two of them. Under first year coach J. Tomasiewicz, whatever success the team achieved can be attributed to their dedication and hard work. The team has promise for the future and will depend greatly on its sophomore members who now have the experience and spirit to attain that elusive goal which is victory.

GOLF TEAM

Golf is a sport unlike most others. It does not require the individual to have outstanding strength but rather technique and style. Members of the golf team spent a great deal of time practicing, and improving their skills such as putting and chipping. Under the leadership of Mr. J. Bukovec and armed with woods, irons, and putters they try for the 70's. The team has a tremendous amount of talent, most of which belongs to underclassmen. Upon their return in the 1975-1976 school year they will make a good showing in the Catholic League.

WATER POLO

With the loss of two All-Staters and one All-American, Weber's Polo Team started the IHSA season with only one returning starter, Frank Lopez. The young team showed an enthusiasm and determination that will have to be reckoned with next year. Behind the astute playing of Frank Lopez and Joe Starr, who received All-Star Team honors, along with Don Robertson and Jeff Winter the "Aqua-netters" made it to the first round on the state tournaments, playing excellently against Glenbrook North. However, some rough playing ended in foul trouble and the Weberites had to play two men short making an anticipated victory into a disappointing loss.

SWIMMING TEAM

This year, the swim team was in the process of rebuilding after losing the whole senior varsity squad from the year before. Aiding Coach W. Kingsbury on the reconstruction of the team were three outstanding juniors, J. Starr, J. Winter, and D. Robertson. The team is expected to be strong next season, since all varsity members are returning. A good freshman team next year will almost guarantee a team with enough experience and talent to once again have a winning swim team at Weber.

HOCKEY 1974-1975

The Weber Hockey Club was a member of the "High School League" at Rainbo Arena. Literally playing and practicing at all hours of the day the self-supported Club's efforts did not pass unrewarded. They finished with a 16-3-1 record and only one point short of first place. During the playoffs they skated away with the Championship. This year's club is most notable because of the presence of 10 freshmen who along with the 9 upper-classmen contributed to the squads fine performance.

One of the integral parts of any school is the faculty, and Weber possesses a dedicated and talented one. This unique mixture of individuals, through their concern, understanding, and teaching ability, provide the means by which the student can achieve and high goals set by Weber High School. The knowledge and experience of the veteran teachers, combined with the innovation and vigor of the new members, made for a vital and capable faculty. It was through their efforts that a true atmosphere of learning was fostered this year.

OUR PRINCIPAL

Rev. Eugene H. Zalewski, C.R.

At various points in our lives we reassess what we are doing and where we wish to be going. If effect we clarify our goals. This often occurs in conjunction with important events such as a graduation, a change in marital status, the choice of a job, a death in a family. The decisions made at that time are crucial and far reaching.

However there are many short range or immediate goals that we look forward to achieve. These may vary from the completion of a task, the acceptance of a position, the attainment of a campaign, the accomplishment of an objective. They are the incentives that push us to continue our daily efforts. They are also the source of so many pleasant memories. They help us to overlook our periodic failures.

All of these personal, life, and immediate goals have no significance if they are not put into the perspective of our ultimate goal—the one goal that really matters. Most important of all is the fact that God is there to assist us reach Him through our grace relationship with Him. We are not alone.

May we be always conscious of His presence within us!

ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL

Fr. Dennis Sanders has served his fourth year as Assistant Principal at Weber. Having a B.S. and a M.A. in history, with a Librarianship degree, Fr. Sanders is well-qualified. Along with supervising the school's activities as well as helping the individual student, Fr. Sanders executes his duties with prowess. As moderator of the Social Committee, and the essential Mothers' Club, Fr. Sanders has been an asset to Weber High School.

Aiding the principal and his assistant in the formulation and implementation of school policy is the advisory board. These experienced and dedicated administrators are greatly responsible for the smooth operation of the school.

ADVISORY BOARD

GUIDANCE

The Guidance Department provides for meeting the more specialized needs of the student as an individual throughout his high school years. Each of the four classes has a counselor specializing in his particular level. Matters pertaining to their education are discussed, as well as how to cope with the outside world and live in an ever changing society. Information and assistance are directed to each student appropriate to his requirements and personal desires and ambitions, from adjustment to high school for the Freshman to post-graduation planning for the senior.

The programs are directed to develop a keen sense of responsibility to the world and to the Church.

RELIGION

ENGLISH

The English Department seeks to develop American, Christian gentlemen who are thoughtful, logical, analytical, critical, creative, articulate, and expressive. Based upon this philosophy, the English Department seeks to provide the student with a basic knowledge of his native language through the study of grammar, spelling and vocabulary; to give the student the opportunity to express himself through various writing assignments; to inspire the confident employment of the students' speaking abilities through drama and speech; and to develop a sense of good taste in the student through classic and contemporary literature.

MATHEMATICS

"Mathematics possesses not only truth, but supreme beauty—a beauty cold and austere, like that of sculpture, without appeal to any part of our weaker nature, sublimely pure, and capable of a stern perfection, such as only the greatest art can show—"

—Bertrand Russell

The mathematics program is designed to meet the needs of all students by making provision for competence in the basic skills and understandings for dealing with number and form, by creating habits of effective thinking, and by explaining the essential character of mathematics— how it is used to explore and describe physical reality and to contribute through its aesthetic values to the individual's intellectual satisfaction.

Modern Science has shown that hidden within objects which we determine as visible lie one or many extremely complicated microcosms that may be entirely invisible. A generally accepted presence of an invisible microcosm triggers the scientific curiosity to try and expose this new world. Science becomes an adventure in one's mind, an inter-conflict of reason. Always asking questions and receiving answers that only generate more questions, which in turn lead only to more observations. The "What's" and "How's" that resurrect from such observations, experiments and explorations become the tools that are used in the pursuit of the "Why" behind the physical phenomena. It is hoped that students enrolled in Weber's Scientific Programs will learn to use these tools in exploring the various scientific topics and principles. Perhaps they may discover the reasons, or the "why's", behind several proven scientific facts.

LANGUAGE

The learning of any second language is an educational experience opening the mind to new areas of verbalization. It adds another dimension to one's character, expanding his intellect and instilling a sense of awareness and perception of another culture. It is a rewarding experience—an experience where a true sense of accomplishment is achieved through self-discipline and verbal practices. It is an experience where translation is not simply done from a literary point of view but also from a cultural one. This combination is directed toward a comprehension of the civic, cultural, and social aspects of another nation.

Today we are no longer living in a world of "corner stores" and bakeries and this will be even more evident in the future. The growth and complexity of today's business world is astronomical. The business department strives to prepare the student to face the challenge of today's dynamic business world. They do this by providing the student with knowledge in associated fields. These include business, economics, typing, and an in depth look into accounting. The involved student will find himself well informed on the real facts that compose these essential facets of the business world today.

The aim of the Technical Drawing department is to develop in the student a facility to communicate graphically; that is, to be able to prepare and understand how various types of drawings, illustrations, maps, graphs and other types of pictorial information are used to communicate a variety of ideas. ## LIBRARY

The combined efforts of the Audio-Visual and Library departments provide Weber and its students with an invaluable service. By offering a wide range of educational techniques through books as well as machines, students are able to expand their knowledge of varied topics. With the modernization of new methods and dimensions of teaching, Weber offers its students a revised concept in understanding the actions and decisions needed for an age of constant change. With these changes to which we are susceptible, benefits can be reaped by taking advantage of advances in learning fields as exposed to students through these departments.

SPECIAL SERVICES

During the past year, Weber was fortunate to be able to have with us a diversified group of personnel, male and female, young as well as old; who dedicated their time and efforts in assisting Weber and its students in areas concerning Redak, Vocations, Music, Physical Education, and forms of other teaching services. Without these people we would be missing a vital link in the chain of well-rounded education in today's high school. In attempting to refine modes for teaching, Weber possesses a well qualified group of specialists, whom we greatly appreciate.

IN ITS STUDENT LIFE . . .
. . . WEBER STANDS CLEAR

A school having nothing but academic pursuits would truly be boring. In order to develop students who are well-rounded, an educational institution must offer much more. Weber, seeking to build the "total man", provides various outside the classroom opportunities for the growth of the student. These often take the form of special events which one can participate totally or simply be an observer. Weberites had a number of unique activities during the past school year which comprised their student life.

STUDENT LIFE

HOMECOMING '74

Homecoming '74 was one of the finest ever assembled. Its original purpose was, of course, to rally support for the football team. It accomplished this and more, as the weekend saw the school more unified than at any time of the school year. Parents, faculty, students, and community were involved to a greater degree than ever in making this event a success. Under the theme "We Can Make it Happen," many things did—a bonfire rally and a torchlight parade, a 50-hour Marathon Football Game for the Heart Association, Weber Pub, Car Wash, Bicycle Benefit, Homecoming Hop, Homecoming Parade, Alumni Reception, a hard fought 22-6 loss to city champion St. Laurence, and a Hayride being the highlights.

SENIOR-FACULTY BASKETBALL

Once again, this year, the jock teachers met the athletic students in a battle of basketball. Once again, the teachers fell short in their quest of victory 64-37. Although the teachers had Mr. Palikowski's 13 points, the combined points of B. Kaminski, L. DePasquale, S. Agin, and B. Bosco blew the teachers off the basketball court. The Referees, V. Joseph and P. Sitkowski, called two technical fouls against Coach Hoffman and Al Palikowski. Other highlights of the game included the tremendous coaching of F. Randle and the humorous play-by-play commentary of J. Zonzo. Most important of all, the game provided both the students and the teachers with an hour of good, clean fun.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY INDUCTION

For the first time at Weber High School, an evening induction service was incorporated besides the regular school induction. This ceremony was conducted at the Weber faculty chapel at night with the parents of the inductees and regular members attending.

During the ceremony, speeches on the topics of Character, Scholarship, Service, and Leadership, were given by the National Honor Society officers. After the speeches, each inductee lit his taper from a candle representing one of those four qualities. Later, the blessing of the pins by Fr. Gene and their reception by the new members followed. Refreshments and entertainment were provided afterwards by the Father's Club.

MINI-WEEK '75

The Mini-Course Week is an innovative approach to education. It takes education outside of the formal high school structure and shapes a different learning experience. It is not a five day vacation. Mini-Week helps to demonstrate that learning is a continuous process and can also be fun. The program each student chooses gives him the opportunity to broaden his educational background. Some students may wish to take a course entirely new to them, others may opt for a greater understanding in a known field. This week is a learning situation different from any other learning situation a Weberite encounters.

DONKEY BASKETBALL

APRIL 13, 1975

Hundreds of laughing and cheering fans filled the Weber gymnasium for the Second Annual Donkey Basketball game. There were three separate matches for the entertainment of the crowd, two meets and a Championship Game. The faculty team consisting of such notables as Glenn Mordini, Marty Beirne, Bill "Kings" Kingsbury, and Fr. Frank annihilated the student team of J. Drury, E. Stefanowicz, John Zonzo and Mark Adelphia by a score of 4 to 0 in the first game. In the second meet, the students received a temporary revenge with a team lead by M. Osowski, R. Conran, and M. Deck by defeating the faculty 6 to 2. The Championship game was won by the faculty in a rough and wild match by a score of 6 to 4.

JUNIOR RING CEREMONY

The Junior ring ceremony began with a Mass celebrated by Fr. Gene. The importance and special meaning of the rings was augmented by the solemnity of the occasion. After having been blessed, the rings were distributed to the class of 1976. With the reception of these rings, the Juniors also were charged with the responsibilities of soon being Seniors. Into their hands fell the leadership of the school previously held by the class of 1975, soon to graduate. The event was not to be forgotten by the Juniors, nor by many of their parents and friends who were also there. This day will be one they can look back on with fond memories.

The first Junior Prom in Weber High School history was held this school year. This memorable occasion took place on Friday, May 9, 1975, largely as a result of interest and arrangements by members of the Junior class. Around one-hundred Juniors and their dates attended this affair, which was held in the social hall of the school. Refreshments were served, and the promites were entertained by the popular group "Tycho Brahe." Dancing and the prevailing romantic atmosphere helped to make the evening a pleasant and enjoyable one. Its success will hopefully make a Junior Prom a part of the Weber scene for years to come.

Two Prom-ites pause for some refreshment.

The underclassmen have made great contributions to Weber during the past school year. They not only participated in academics, but were greatly involved in extra-curricular activities. The support they gave to the various fund raising drives as well as the spirit they showed at sport events was conspicuous. They seem well on their way to assuming the responsibilities of upperclassmen. It is now up to them to carry on in the best interests, and to keep up the tradition of Weber High School.

IN ITS UNDERCLASSMEN . . .
. . . WEBER STANDS CLEAR

FRESHMEN

CLASS OF SEVENTY-EIGHT

Likened to a young lost child, the freshman finds himself in a labyrinth of hallways and stairwells. Confounded and confused he has no answers. He is forced to search through this maze making inquiries to the "omniscient" upperclassmen and faculty. Slowly the maze is mastered and Weber becomes a second home. During this period the freshman is likely to stay inconspicuous, emerging from his seclusion only when absolutely necessary.

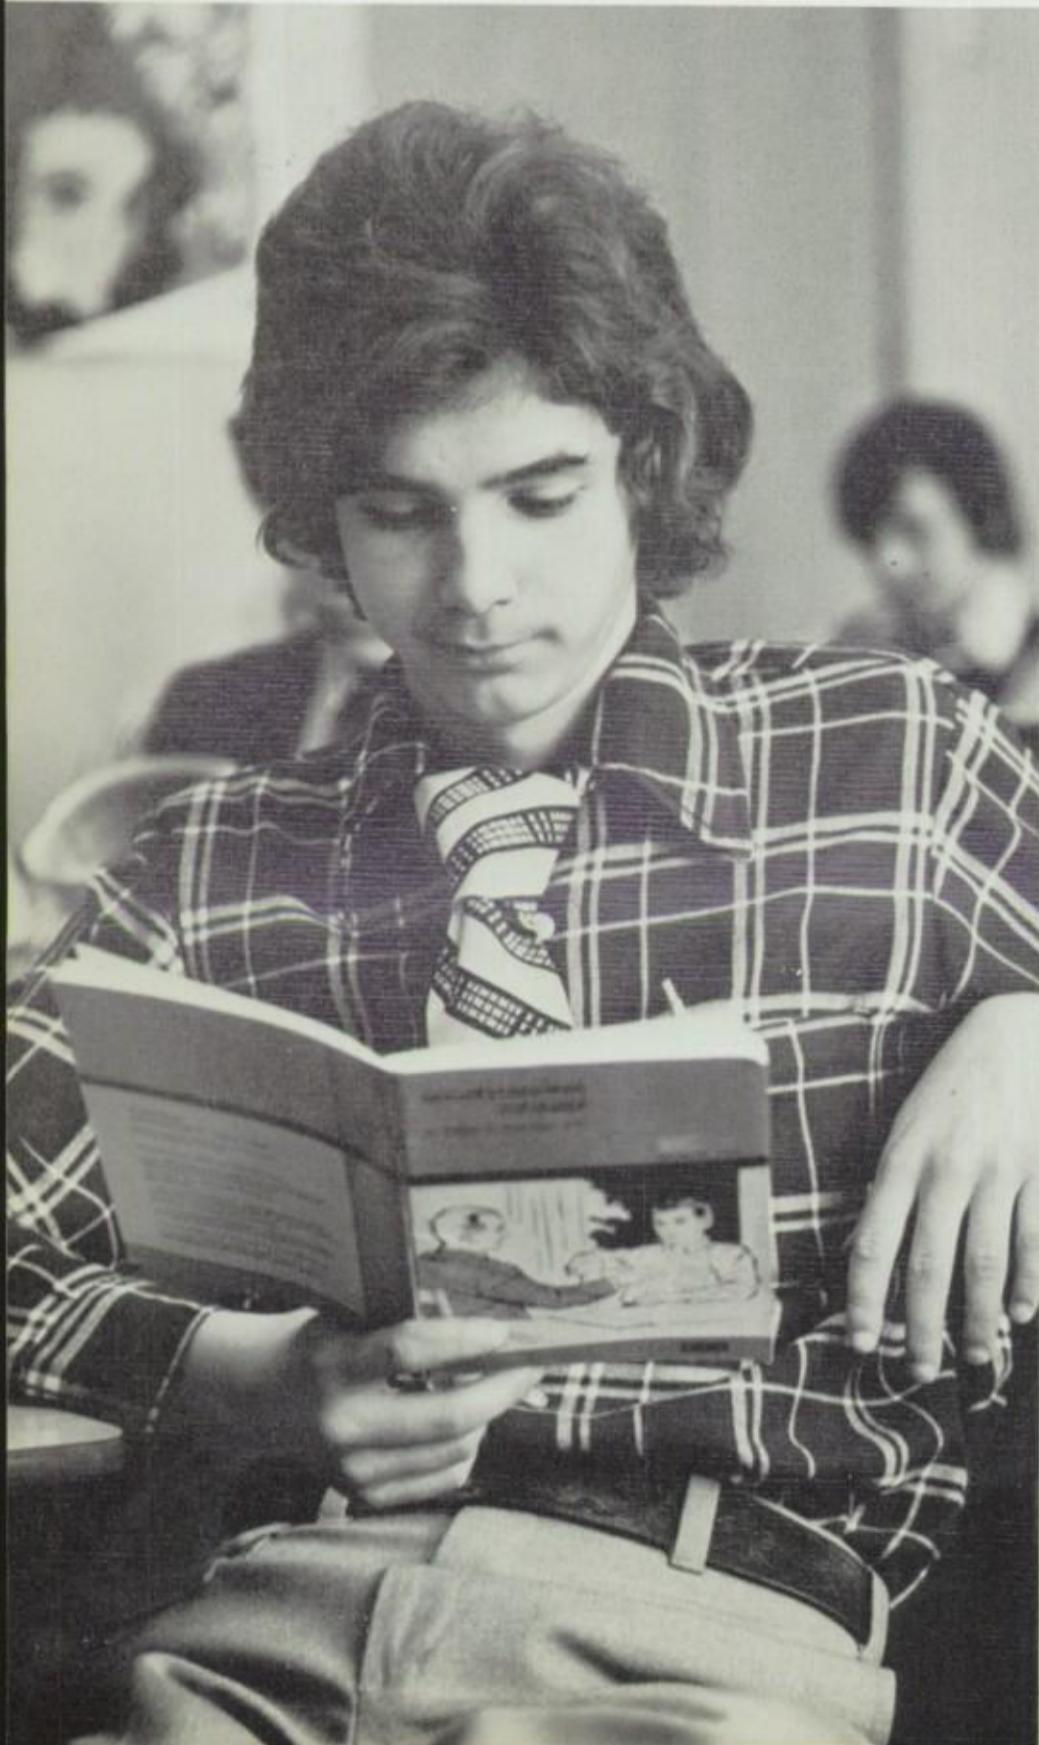

However, as time passes the freshman becomes more knowledgeable and more self-assured. He grows. Although this growing process may be chipped with mistakes he will learn from these errors and continue his growth. It is a very demanding period in a young man's life. Because of his "freshness" he is ridiculed and jeered at by the "superior ones". But, showing his growth, the freshman learns to take these verbal darts politely and humbly for he realizes that those who are throwing were once the targets years before.

SOPHOMORES

CLASS OF SEVENTY-SEVEN

When their second year of Weber education reaches its end the Sophomores realize that their formative years have ended also. The High School System is no longer new to them. They now believe that they are becoming a significant and recognized part of Weber High School. They have become intimate with its spirit. They have learned its patterns, moved with its changes, and have begun to steer and master its directions.

This feeling of significance combined with curiosity, a search for leadership and a need for recognition bring about an increased participation in school activities and programs.

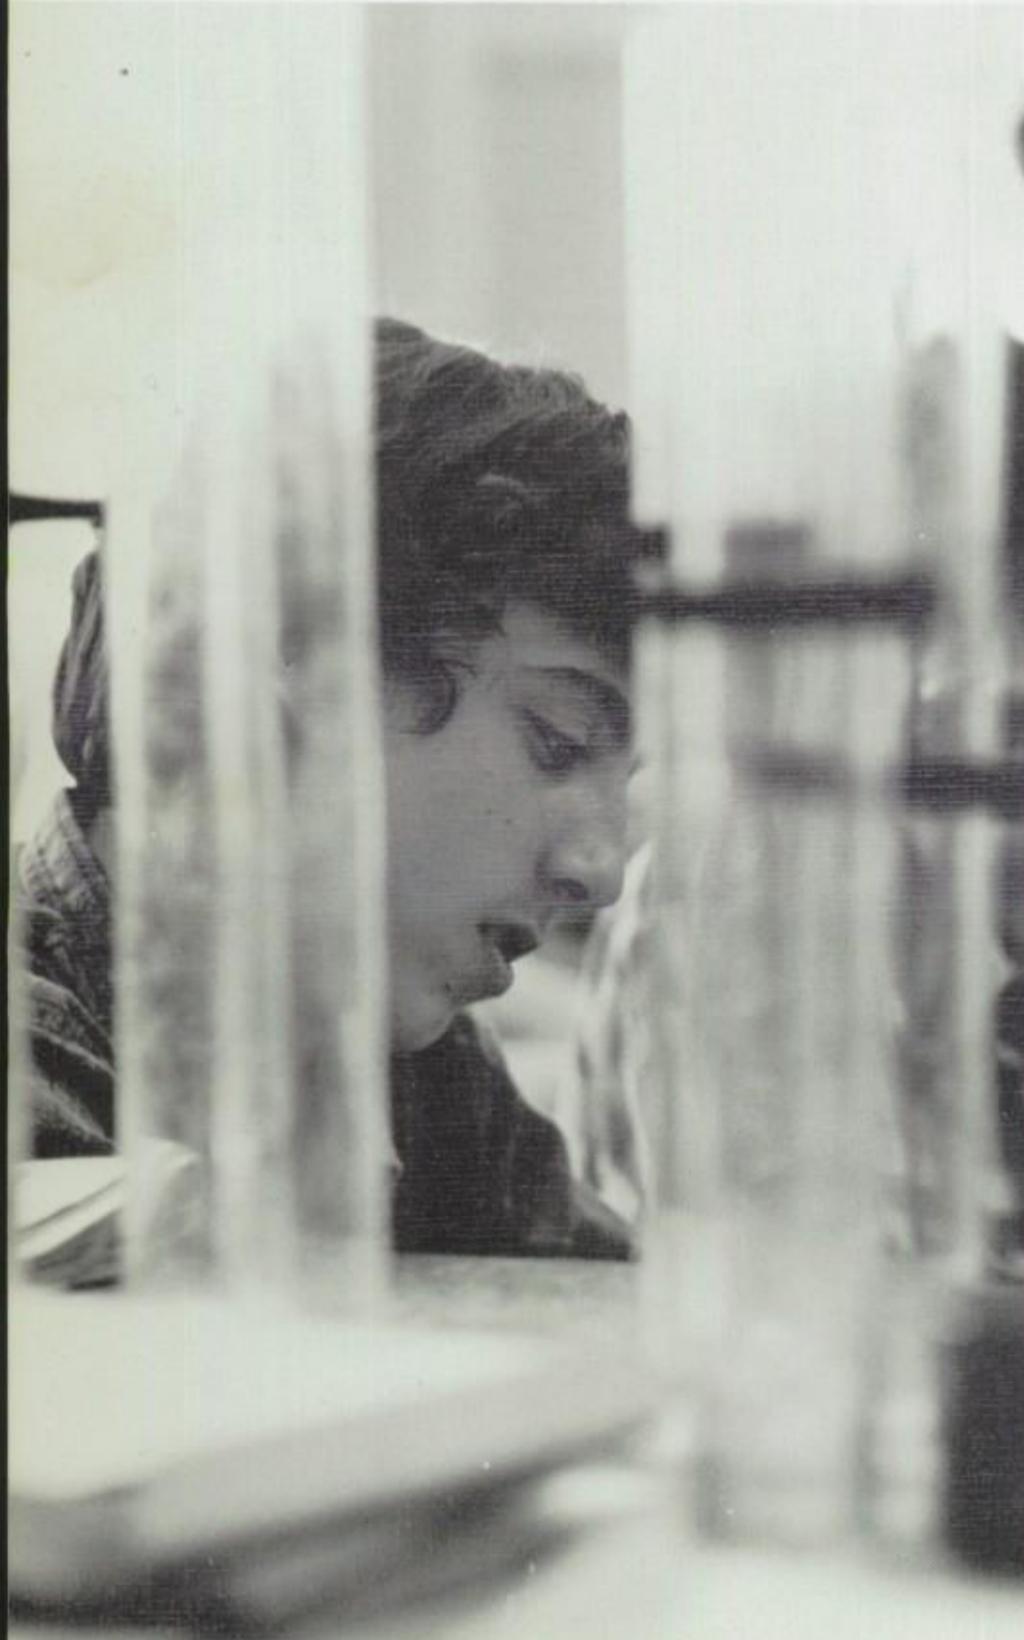

Sophomores now set their sights toward their final years as Weberites. They begin to establish goals which they will use as steps in the climb up the ladder of life.

JUNIORS

CLASS OF SEVENTY-SIX

The Junior Class is destined to fill the void which the vacating Seniors will leave. When they first arrive they accustom themselves to the roll of the upperclassmen. However, when the school year draws nearer to its close the aspiring Juniors become inspired with a new realization that they will be next year's leaders. Each day then, becomes a preparation for that leadership which will be inherited and entrusted to them during their Senior year.

This transition year becomes one of familiarization, anticipation, and participation in school activities and programs. These Juniors commence to understand that there is a co-existence between knowledge and leadership. They realize that they must be fully prepared to accept this future responsibility. They realize that each day draws them closer to this expected future, and that each day brings new challenges that must be conquered.

A wide variety of activities is offered at Weber High School. These include the many clubs and organizations of the school, whose aims and spheres of action differ greatly. In this way students of every interest group are able to get involved in something. Cooperation and a high degree of participation are cultivated through these programs. Each activity, whether in the area of music, service, culture, or social life, provides a learning and maturing experience. Activities are an essential part of the Weber scene.

JUNIORS

CLASS OF SEVENTY-SIX

The Junior Class is destined to fill the void which the vacating Seniors will leave. When they first arrive they accustom themselves to the roll of the upperclassmen. However, when the school year draws nearer to its close the aspiring Juniors become inspired with a new realization that they will be next year's leaders. Each day then, becomes a preparation for that leadership which will be inherited and entrusted to them during their Senior year.

This transition year becomes one of familiarization, anticipation, and participation in school activities and programs. These Juniors commence to understand that there is a co-existence between knowledge and leadership. They realize that they must be fully prepared to accept this future responsibility. They realize that each day draws them closer to this expected future, and that each day brings new challenges that must be conquered.

A wide variety of activities is offered at Weber High School. These include the many clubs and organizations of the school, whose aims and spheres of action differ greatly. In this way students of every interest group are able to get involved in something. Cooperation and a high degree of participation are cultivated through these programs. Each activity, whether in the area of music, service, culture, or social life, provides a learning and maturing experience. Activities are an essential part of the Weber scene.

Red Horde

Sitting: A. Bartczysztn, A. Ragona. Kneeling: M. Danek, J. Peters. Standing: Chief R. Wills.

At just about every football and basketball game, any fan can see the Weber cheerleaders getting the home crowd behind the Weber players.

These girls chosen from many of the surrounding high schools, must show their enthusiasm and coordination not only in their tryouts, but also at every practice twice a week, and at each sports event.

They are not only cheerleaders, however, but they also act as hostesses for several Weber school functions.

The Weber cheerleaders play an important and traditional role during the entire school year. Their service and spirit are appreciated by all.

J. Peters touches up A. Bartczysztn's war paint.

Whenever a Weber athlete walks onto the field or court, he knows that he will be cheered on by a very remote, almost extinct tribe of Indians known as the Red Horde. Led on by their chief, one of a dying breed, the tribesmen dance, shout, and carouse to get the team inspired. They also arouse the crowd to a frenzy of shouting and singing, spurring the team on to victory.

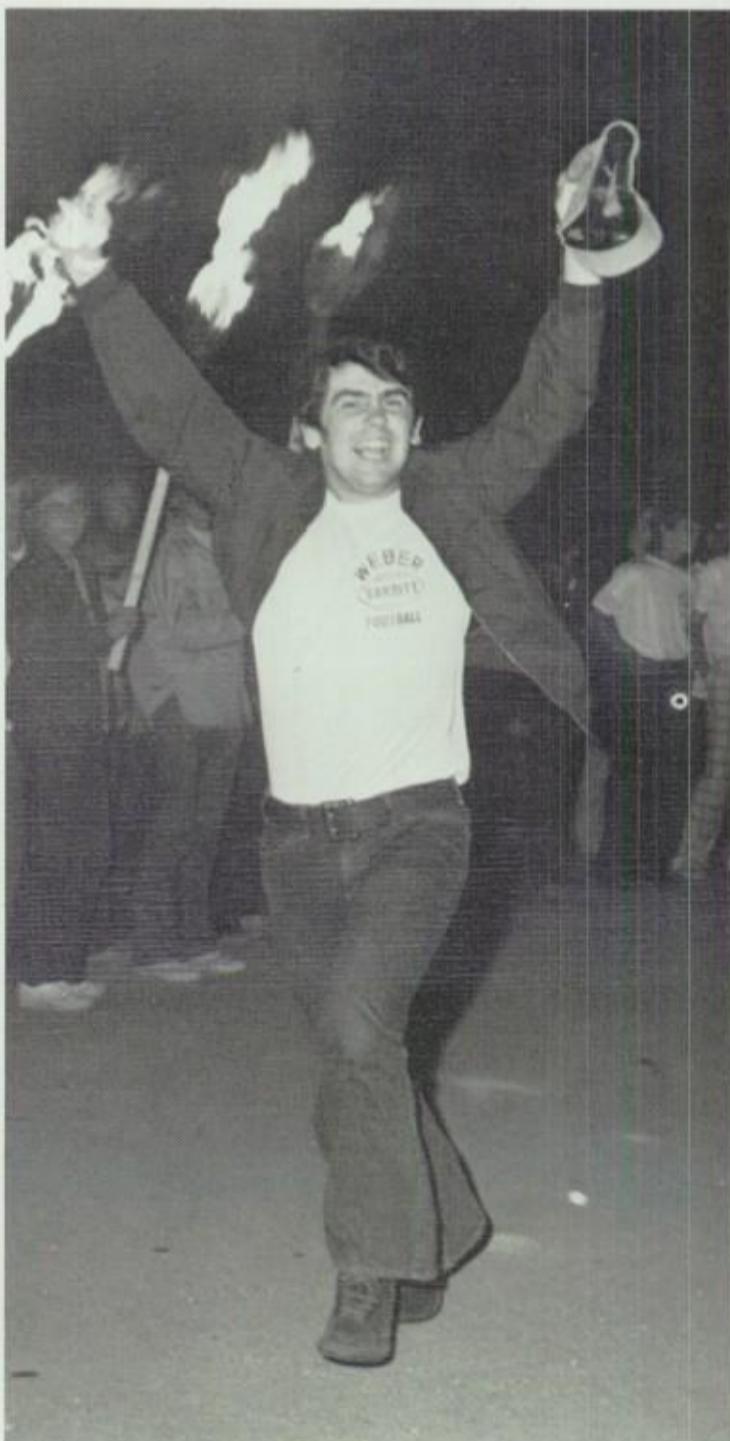

The Horde started many moons ago as a branch of the Sioux for their ferocity. The tribe has evolved into a small group also known for their ferocity and now for their loyalty to Weber.

Cheerleaders are busily preparing for 1975 halftime festivities.

This years senior class has left an everlasting mark on the annals of Weber High School. Through four years they have grown and matured in that process known as high school life. They have broadened their interests and horizons. Especially in the past school year they played leading parts in athletics, clubs, activities, and special events, and supported the school in every way. The Class of '75 has departed with a heritage but yet a great responsibility ahead of them.

PROM 1975 . . .

This year's senior prom, held May 2 at the elegant Arlington Park Hilton, proved once again to be a memorable occasion, thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended. The exclusive formal event, held annually for seniors, their dates, and their guests, was the social culmination of four years as a Weberite. The atmosphere of the Paramount Ballroom and the accompanying music of the Dick Judson Orchestra set the mood for the evening, one that will remain close to many hearts for years to come.

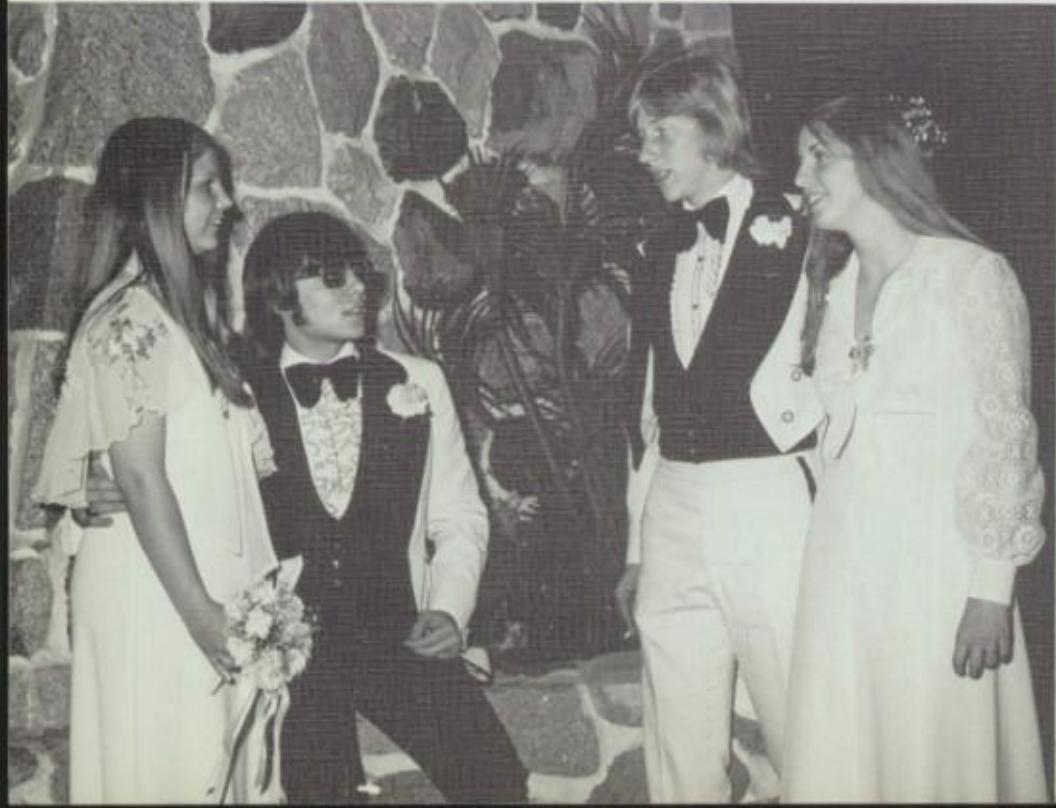

CLOCKWISE:

Ed Farrer gallantly starts off a memorable evening.

Seniors partake in some of the obvious advantages of slow dancing.

John Schultz escorts his date to the ballroom.

GRADUATION 1975

The Graduation Mass, held Friday evening, May 30, took place in the gymnasium. This was the last Mass the seniors were able to participate in as a class. The Mass was celebrated by Bishop McManus with the Pastors of the Resurrectionist parishes and members of the Weber Faculty concelebrating. Before the Mass the members of the National Honor Society received their gold tassel and hood in recognition of their achievements and service to the school. The Bishop directed his homily to the graduates about young people and their relation to the church. The ceremony ended with the distribution of a cross and chain as a remembrance of Weber and of God's constant presence.

The making of the Dolphin is a year-long process. It starts with the constant taking of pictures by our own expert photographers, many hours of planning pages and deadlines by our editor, and it ends with some frantic work by the entire staff in the Pub Room. The Yearbook staff is composed of . . . say, colorful characters. With this group at work, everyone can be sure that anything they do will be memorable. This is the result of their efforts- the 1975 Dolphin!

WEBER STANDS CLEAR . . . AND YOU AIN'T SEEN NOTHIN' YET . . .

The year that was - 1974-75. We of the Dolphin, in order to preserve it, had to encounter it with you. We shared the joys and sorrows, the work and the play, the good times and the bad. Hopefully, together with you we grew in the experience. We have not presented all the people and events, that would have been impossible. However, an organized, humanistic view of Weber High School was attempted to the best of our ability. If while pursuing this book, you smiled once or felt a rush of emotion you thought lost, our purpose will have been accomplished.

EPILOGUE

Live neither in the past, nor for the future, nor for a million years to come.

Live rather for the moment,
as the bloom of a rosebud is fleeting,
and the kiss of the wind swift.

The past dissolves into oblivion,
and the future, once here, is now.
Yesterday shall never be again.

There is only today, and each moment is the reality and the beauty.
It is what you believe it to be.
It can be nothing less or nothing more.

Therefore, do not fear life. It is as abundant as unceasing as the sands, and as constant as the stars.

Yet, how fragile is the individual life,
and so, all the more precious.
Yes, you are most special.

Only you can be the being that you are,
and that you have the potential to become.
Rejoice in the celebration of your existence.

It is so good to be alive.

Old Days, good times I remember.
Fun Days, filled with simple pleasure.

Drive in movies, comic books and blue jeans,
Howdy Doody, baseball cards and birthdays . . .

Take me back, to a world gone away,
Memories, seem like yesterday . . .

Old Days, good times I remember.
Gold Days, days I'll always treasure.

Funny faces, full of love and laughter,
Funny places, summer nights and streetcars . . .

Take me back, to the world gone away,
Memories, seem like yesterday . . .

Old Days, in my mind and in my heart to stay . . .

Old Days, rockin' reason, good times gone away . . .

Old Days, days of love and feeling extra keen . . .

Old days, days of magic, still so close to me . . .
